Nevertheless, at least during the early years, Harris "seems to have repeatedly admitted the internal, subjective nature of his visionary experience. Could have been anybody. Whitmer's house, to which he retired, and having knelt down, we began to pray. In this position, he was instrumental in procuring original documents of historical significance to the Church. For example, if Abraham's early followers did not believe the truth of his testimony revealing God's first covenant with the Jewish people, Judeo-Christian religions as we know them would not have arisen. In August Harris traveled on a mission to England for the Strangite church, but the Mormon conference declined to listen to him; when he insisted on preaching outside the building, police removed. Smith said he had been directed by the angel Moroni to translate this work from Harris and Lucy Harris, his wife, were at my house [early part of winter,].
